DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 17 July 2006 has been entered.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 4, 5, 9, and 10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 5, 9, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bewick-Sonntag et al. (6,417,424).

Bewick-Sonntag discloses all aspects of the claimed invention with the exception of the amount of non-acidic compound present with respect to the weight of the superabsorbent. Bewick-Sonntag discloses a hygiene article, such as a diaper, in column 5, line 1. The hygiene article comprises a superabsorbent material, as disclosed in column 7, lines 57-60, and carrier material comprising a non-acidic compound in the form of cellulose acetate, as disclosed in column 8, lines 24-25. The article further comprises odor control, as disclosed in column 5, lines 20-24. The non-acidic compound is homogenously divided into two tissue layers located above and below the superabsorbent material, as disclosed in column 15, lines 56-57.

Bewick-Sonntag discloses in column 15, Examples 2 and 3, a carrier having a basis weight and thickness that is small relative to the superabsorbent material. Therefore, the absorbent structure of Bewick-Sonntag comprises a small amount of cellulose acetate relative to the superabsorbent material. It would therefore be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention the non-acidic compound is present in an amount of 1-20% with respect to the weight of the superabsorbent, since Bewick-Sonntag teaches the desire to have a small amount of the non-acidic compound relative to the amount of superabsorbent.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2, 3, 8, 11 and 12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art of record fails to disclose the claimed invention. Specifically, the closest prior art of record, U.S. Patents 6,534,572 to Ahmed and 6,417,424 to Bewick-Sonntag et al., fails to disclose a superabsorbent material comprising a non-acidic, cyclic lactide in combination with the superabsorbent material. The superabsorbent composition of Ahmed comprises a polylactide, and during the polymerization process the ring of the lactide monomers is opened to form the polylactide. Therefore, the prior art of record does not teach nor fairly suggest the claimed invention.
